THE GAIN AND THE LOSS.

The battle over the license question have won because the Liquor league cleaner and more orderly. Speaking of this side of the question, the Bridgeport Standard save Bridgeport Standard says concerning the cause of this change in public

"The illicit dealer has always been the bane of the liquor business; it was he who aroused the greatest opposition to the trade, and it was he who was the main issue whenever there was a contest. Now the liquor dealers have been after him and are still hunting him. They realize that the life of the business is at stake and that if it is to have any legal existence the law-breaker must be crushed. Their association urged this action on their members, and with success, so that nowadays the open saloon on Sunday practically unknown, at least in the cities of Connecticut. The liquor law is better observed than ever and the ndency is all in that direction." And the no-license forces can take the credit of creating this tendency We are living in days now when the liquor interest is trying to evolve "good saloon" from the saloon system which is given until 11 o'clock at night to close because that is the safest time to shove into the dark the besotted and dangerous products of the business, if the reason given by man Robinson and was appar ently accepted is of true coinage.

If the communities of this state cannot be rid of the saloon, they have reason to thank God and to sing on. if they are about to see the liquor association make the average saloon respectable and the product of it so New York took in nearly seven mil-glorified that it will be safe to turn lions, and it was not a third of what loose before all decent people are

The results of these October elections may be a setback to the nolicense cause, but if it has been instrumental in making the liquor dealers see that they must better their meth ods and improve their products to remain in business, who shall say that the loss is greater than the gain!

CANADA'S BEST YEAR.

While Canada can attract to her fertile lands the bravest and the best of American tillers of the soil, she has reason to be proud of her power and we have reason to congratulate her. for the benefits cannot be all to one

A despatch from Ottawa, Canada, says: "Immigration into Canada from the United States during the last fiscal year was the largest on record and even exceeded the numher of arrivals from Great Britain. The newcomers are chiefly experienced agriculturists with capital. Practically 60,000 Americans entered Canada, and every man, woman and child was possessed of an average of $1,000 in stock, cash and effects. This means that they brought into Canada very nearly $60,000,000." They have carried into Canada something more than $60,000,000. They have carried there their love of free government and of the old home and will stem the foreign spirit which would make enemies of two peoples who must be friends. We are tending to become one people instead of foes.
